PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2006 September - Present

Associate Professor of Human Relationship Systems

Nova Southeastern University, Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Preparation and teaching of courses in both the Masters and Doctoral degree programs in the Department of Family Therapy and the Department of Conflict Analysis and Resolution. Supervision of clinical practica, service on department as well as University level committees, dissertation advising and chairing, and other related duties and activities.

1993 August – August 2006

Assistant Professor of Family Therapy

Nova Southeastern University, The Graduate School of Humanities and Social Sciences.

July 2001 – April 2005: Director of Doctoral Programs, Marriage and Family Therapy

Administrative Responsibilities include: recruitment, admissions, and supervision of the academic progress of doctoral students, develop and monitor academic programs and procedures, assist in faculty selection and evaluation, provide support for faculty educational and scholarly activities, help to build and maintain an adjunct faculty team, maintain and supervise appropriate records, organize staff and student evaluations and facilitate grievances and discipline processes, initiate and facilitate student and staff reward/recognition processes, assist in the development of new programs for the school, maintain and revise the university strategic and accreditation plans for the department, ensure compliance with university policies and procedures, county and state and federal regulations, and accreditation requirements.

Teaching Responsibilities include: teaching and clinical supervision of M.S. and Ph.D. level graduate students in the School's departments of both Family Therapy and Conflict Analysis and Resolution. Other responsibilities also include directing doctoral dissertation projects in the Ph.D. program, doctoral applied clinical projects in the DMFT program, membership on dissertation and applied clinical project committees, supervision of general student research, grant application writing, as well as standing and ad-hoc committee work within both the School and University.

2002 October – December 2003

Students United with Parents and Educators to Resolve Bullying (SUPERB)

Project Manager

I served as the initial contact, cultivator, and then project manager for SHSS's first and only targeted philanthropic development gift. After meeting with the primary donor and his wife, I was primarily responsible for the management and oversight of a 1 year, $100,000 project to develop a viable pilot program aimed at the prevention of school bullying. The project was successful not only in researching and developing a program curriculum, it also allowed for the creation of 2 doctoral Research Assistantship opportunities within the school (1 in DFT and 1 in DCAR) as well as the hiring of a fellow faculty colleague (Dr. Anne Rambo) who continues to develop and refine the program even after the initial contract was fulfilled.

1997 May - Present

President, Burnett Human Systems Consulting, Inc.

Offering organizational consulting services to a variety of organizations, which have included family businesses, health care institutions, governments, corporations, and academic departments. These consultation services are geared around a human systems perspective, and focus on achieving successful management of complex human relationship systems, at the micro through the macro levels of an organization. Consultations range from intervention at the human resources level, the middle manager level, and the upper management/board of directors levels. Consultation services available also include individual executive coaching.

1991 October - July 1993

Staff Psychologist

Altoona Hospital, Center for Medicine, Outpatient Department, Altoona Pa. Provided outpatient psychological services to a caseload that consisted of approximately 60% child and adolescent cases, and 40% adult family and marital cases. Additional responsibilities included psychological testing and assessment services, as well as consultation services, to other hospital staff and community agencies, including the Altoona area school district. Supervisor for Licensure: Scott Lambert, M.A.
Supervised Hours: 1800

Clinical Internship

1990 September – 1991 August

Psychology Intern: Family Therapy Track

Harlem Valley Psychiatric Center, Wingdale, N.Y.

This facility was a fully A.P.A. approved internship cite, which also provided a family therapy specialty and A.A.M.F.T. approved supervision. Duties included services to, and supervision in, family therapy cases at the Peekskill outpatient clinic of H.V.P.C. two days a week. I also participated as a member of a live treatment team, under the supervision of an A.A.M.F.T. approved supervisor, who was a licensed psychologist as well. Two days a week I provided supervised inpatient services at the main hospital in Wingdale, where I was supervised by two licensed psychologists. One day of the week I was involved in ongoing year-long professional seminars, taught by the psychology staff. The core of these seminars were in the areas of family and behavior therapy, but there were a number of other shorter term modules, including professional ethics, DSM-III-R, psychological testing, neuropsychological testing, psychopharmacology, and a general readings seminar throughout the year as well.

Internship Director: Paul Margolies, Ph.D.; Licensed Supervisors: Glenn Bronley, Ph.D. (AAMFT Approved), Henry Glickman, Ph.D., John George, Ph.D. Supervised Hours: 1600. A.A.M.F.T. Hours: 800

1989 September - June 1990

Center for Applied Psychology, I.U.P. School/Family Consultant

Purchase Line School District, Purchase Line, Pa.

As part of a pilot program funded by the County Commissioners of Indiana County, involvement included the formulation, presentation, and implementing an innovative school intervention program. The program targets "at risk" students in a rural Jr./Sr. High School. Interventions/Consultations included identified students as well as parents, teachers, counselors and administrators, depending on the assessment of each individual case. Presentations of workshops, as well as in-home interventions were also part of the original grant.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

AAMFT Supervised Hours: 300

1989 September - 1990 May

Part-Time Faculty

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Kittanning Campus. Instructor of three sections (1 Fall, 2 Spring) of a General Psychology class of 50 students each. Course covered basic core areas of knowledge in the field, ranging from the biological to the social to the psychotherapeutic.

1988 January - June 1990

Psychological Services Associate II

Kittanning Family Counseling Center, Outpatient Services Department, Kittanning, Pa. I provided psychotherapeutic services to adults, children, geriatrics, and families on an outpatient basis. Duties and responsibilities of the position included providing family, marital, play, and individual therapy, treatment planning, and case management. Supervision weekly by a licensed psychologist. 15 hours per week.

Supervisor: Joyce Kirkpatrick-Smith, Psy.D

Licensed Supervised Hours: 1080

1987 December - 1989 August

Psychological Services Associate II

Indiana County Guidance Center, Family and Social Living Services Department, Indiana, Pa. I provided the same type of services, with the same population as described above. A licensed psychologist supervised me on a weekly basis. 8 hours per week.

Supervisor: Ralph M. May, Psy.D. Licensed Supervised hours: 670.

1983 April - 1987 August

Psychological Services Associate I

Irene Stacy Community Mental Health Center, Butler, Pa. Adult/Geriatric Outpatient Services. The duties and responsibilities of my position included providing individual, family, marital and group psychotherapy on an outpatient basis for clients 18 years of age and older. I also conducted intake interviews in conjunction with the Base Service Unit at the Center, and provided case management services to a portion of a caseload that averaged between 120-150 clients. Additionally, I also served as chairman of the Center's Peer Review Committee.

Supervisors: James B. Smith, M.A.; Andrew Kaufman, Ph.D.

Graduate Practicum Experiences

1989 September - December 1989

Assessment Clinic

Indiana University of Pa., Indiana, Pa.

Students are exposed to a broad range of psychological assessment situations, including Children & Youth Services evaluations, Learning Disability evaluations, Probation Office evaluations, and Police Academy evaluations. Experience with a range of cognitive, personality, and family assessment instruments was gained at this site.

Supervisor: Marsali Hansen, Ph.D.

Licensed Supervised Hours: 60

1989 June - August

Student Supervisor

Family and Couples Clinic

Indiana University of Pa., Indiana, Pa.

Duties included being primarily responsible for the live supervision of practicum students in family therapy, using a team therapy approach, as well as providing additional supervision time outside of clinic hours to all team members. This supervision consisted of activities such as case conferences, review of videotapes, proper usage of assessment instruments, and treatment planning. I was in turn supervised in the supervision on an individual basis weekly.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

AAMFT Supervised hours: 100 hours.

1989 January - May

Student Supervisor - Family and Couples Clinic

Duties and supervision were the same as described above, but over the course of a full semester.

Supervisor: Dr. Richard Magee, Ph.D.

AAMFT Supervised hours: 200

1988 September - December

Student Supervisor - Family and Couples Clinic

Duties were identical with the above description.

Supervisor: Dr. Richard Magee, Ph.D.

AAMFT Supervised hours: 200

1988 June - August

Family and Couples Clinic

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

Participated in a team and live supervision approach to family therapy. As a student participant I administered and scored family and couples assessments, and conducted family/couples interventions. Post session supervision included reviews of video tape, case conceptualization, and treatment planning for both long and short term goals.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

AAMFT Supervised therapy hours: 100

1988 January - May

Family and Couples Clinic

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

A continuation of the experiences of the semester before, while participating on a different therapy team. Engaged in Structural/Strategic approaches to families, with live supervision.

Supervisor: James C. Maloni, Ph.D.
AAMFT Supervised therapy hours: 150.

1988 September - December

Assessment III - Clinical Assessment Requirement

A class requirement was that each student complete two "live" clinical assessments. To fulfill the requirement I conducted two assessments where I gave the Wide Range Achievement Test-Revised (WRAT-R), the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory (MMPI), the Million Clinical Multiaxial Inventory (MCMI), as well as structured clinical interviews.

Instructor: Leon VandeCreek, Ph.D.

1988 January - May

Intervention II Practicum Requirement

A two-credit practicum requirement in addition to the course work. This practicum involved the use of "pseudo-clients" from the department subject pool, who were seen for individual sessions over the course of the semester. Innovative individual therapy techniques like empty chair exercises, focusing techniques, relaxation training, and cognitive restructuring were practiced either with the pseudo-clients or in role play situations with other members of the class.

Supervisor: Alexander Rich, Ph.D. Licensed Supervised Hours: 100

1982 January - May

Psychological Testing and Assessment Field Placement

Harmarville Rehabilitation Center provided the clinical setting for experience in the administration and scoring of both I.Q. (WAIS-R) and projective/diagnostic tests (Bender-Gestalt) for the purpose of psychological reports and assessments. Contributions and suggestions for learning came from both the Center's psychology staff and Duquesne University graduate faculty and students.

Instructor: Constance T. Fischer, Ph.D.

1981 September - May

Introduction to the Theory and Practice of Individual and Group Psychotherapeutics

As an ongoing process throughout the course of my graduate training, I was exposed to the fundamental theoretical concepts that lay the groundwork of psychotherapy. I was simultaneously given the opportunity to exercise and explore these concepts in peer counseling situations and consultation groups. I also participated in two separate group therapy situations, one in which I was a permanent member, and one in which I participated as a co-leader.

Instructors: Charles Maes, Ph.D., Anthony Barton, Ph.D.

1980 May - August

Undergraduate Student Practicum

I was introduced to basic individual, group, and milieu therapy techniques as they were applied to the unique population of maximum security patients at Farview State Hospital. This experience also served as the pilot study for my future research at the hospital.

Instructor: John T. Natzke, Ph.D.

Clinic Supervisor: Eldon E. Shields, Ed.D.

Practicum hours: 500

Graduate Research Experience

1990 March - 1991 December

Doctoral Dissertation Project

"Differentiation of Self: An Assessment of Bowen Family Systems Theory in Practice". The project combined both qualitative and quantitative methods to gather empirical information on how clinicians who are trained in Bowen Family Systems theory have actually come to implement the key concept of differentiation of self in their clinical practice. The study employs the Delphi technique to allow for descriptive and more complex data analysis.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

1989 January - 1989 September

Family Clinic Student Supervisor

In collaboration with the data collection aspects of the doctoral dissertation of a colleague, William Harrar, I was responsible for overseeing that the randomization of conditions, as well as the standardization of administration, takes place according to specifications.

1988 June - August

Graduate Assistant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

Participated with and assisted another graduate student in the generation of reports from the computer database of the Family and Couples Clinic in the department. The reports answered questions both of a general demographic nature, as well as more pointed inquiries, such as outcomes reported according to the number of sessions. Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

1988 June - July

Graduate Assistant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

Served as a trained, unbiased rater of respondents' answers in the doctoral dissertation project of an advanced graduate student, Walter Gray.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

1988 February - July

Graduate Assistant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

With another colleague, William Harrar, assisted in the conceptualization, planning, and data entry process of creating a functional microcomputer database for the Family and Couples Clinic.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

1988 February - April

Graduate Assistant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

Assisted in the qualitative analysis of data from the doctoral dissertation of another graduate student, Raphael Salas.

Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

1987 October - November

Graduate Assistant

Indiana University of Pennsylvania, Indiana, Pa.

Assisted in the collection and qualitative analysis of follow up data from the doctoral dissertation of another graduate student, Maria Serra. Supervisor: Richard D. Magee, Ph.D.

May - August

Independent Field Research

At Farview State Hospital, Pennsylvania's only maximum-security forensic hospital, I designed and carried out a descriptive investigation of the institutionally iatrogenic processes between the hospital and the State's correctional system. The results were documented in an unpublished paper, which was presented in the Social Psychology class I attended at Duquesne University.
